We are likewise to give Notice, That the whole Collection upon the said Brief, that hath been paid into the Chamber of London, amounting unto Twenty thousand and five hundred pounds, and that there hath been issued thence, towards the Redemption of the aforesaid Two hundred forty seven Persons, the sum of Fifteen thousand one hundred and seventy pounds.

That the remainder is impressed and actually employing towards the carrying on the said Redemption, with all the expedition that may be. And we are likewise to desire all Persons who have any moneys in their Hands, collected upon His Majesties said Letters Patents, what they forthwith pay the same, as they are directed by the said Brief, so the end is may be brought into the Chamber of London; were yet remaining some hundreds of His Majesties Subjects in Turkish Captivity, more than the Moneys hitherto come in will redem.

Brussels, April 8. From Holland we have advice, that they are using all the diligence possible to get their Fleet to Sea, which however will not be so soon as some have thought; They of Amsterdam seem to be the forwardest, but we certainly hear, that the Ships fitted out by the Admiralties of Zealand, Friesland, and North-Holland, are very backward, especially
